For this story I want to focus on students who have not experienced the cold weather. There are plenty of students from out of state and internationally that have not experienced the brutally cold weather that we get in Illinois. I talked to a friend from California who was really concerned about how he is going to handle the winter. As well as my friend who lives in ISR, we were eating lunch and sat with this one guy from India who said he's never experienced snow. What are students doing to prepare for winter? What are they most worried about for the winter? Does snow or just the cold worry you? Where have you got most advice about winter?
