

Medical Marijuana Rewrite

The possession of medical marijuana in University Housing was introduced to the Illinois Student Government. If approved, it would call for a revision in the Student Code and University Housing regulations.

Illinois laws state that individuals diagnosed with one or more debilitating diseases can apply for medical marijuana use.

Students living on campus have limited options. In fear of losing public funding, public universities hesitate to allow medical marijuana on their campuses.