Update on ISR Food Story

Possible Headline: University housing hears students' cries and is responding with change.

People I Have Interviewed So Far:

1. Daniel Arreola - Freshman Student - Says that the food is not bad but could needs more variety when it comes to different cultural food.
2. Chelsea Hamilton - Senior Assistant Director for Communications and Marketing (University Housing) - Explains what the University is doing to make changes to ISR Dining.
3. Marianne Brooker-Curry - University Housing Marketing - Goes into more detail about the ISR Dining project.

People I Plan On Interviewing Soon:

1. More Students
  - a. Have you heard of the idea of ISR having the worst food?
  - b. How is the food to you?
  - c. Do you think the food meets every person's needs?
  - d. If you have been to other dining halls, how does the food compare there to ISR?
  - e. Are there ways you would improve/change the way food is served at ISR?
2. Chefs and/or other dining hall workers
  - a. What goes into deciding what to put out that day?
  - b. Have you ever heard this claim before?
  - c. Do you add or improve recipies every year?
  - d. Do you use fresh ingredients or frozen ingredients?
